What's In a Name?

The name PASARROYO is the result of the synthesis of two important cultural strains.

The word Pasadena is a name derived from the Chippewa dialect meaning "Crown of the Valley". Arroyo is the Spanish term for a steep-sided canyon, the form of which is closely resembled in the Plaza shade structure.

The harmonic convergence of an indigenous word, Pasadena, with a Spanish word "arroyo" served as the perfect way for the property to honor both cultures.

Pas-a-den-a and Pas-a-rroyo sound very similar as they share the same number of syllables (which further makes for a very cool name!).
